All Night Long (All Night) is a calypso song and hit single.Q: C++ - QT - Issue with QML I have a problem that I'm sure is easy to solve, but it's been over 6 hours now and I don't get it. I can't figure out how to access a C++ class method that I made in the same qtproject. All I want is to pass an integer parameter into a method in a class in C++, but the function "addparameter" is never called in the class object. I believe it is called, as a function in the qml files are called "addParameter" Here is the C++ class method I'm trying to call myFunc::myFunc() { addparameter(3); addparameter(5); addparameter(7); } Here is my code in the main.cpp QMLRegisterType("myFunc", 1, 0, "myFunc"); Here is a part of my main.cpp QObject::connect(&myObject, SIGNAL(addParameter(int)), &myFunc, SLOT(addParameter(int)), Qt::QueuedConnection); What am I doing wrong? A: You cannot connect a signal to a member function. You need to use a slot instead: myObject.signal.connect(myFunc
