KeyMacro is a free, easily useable, small tool that has been designed to save you time while using the keyboard at your computer. The KeyMacro can record and replay keystrokes or mouse clicks on Windows 7, Vista, XP or 2000. It can also record keyboard and mouse events. This is done by using the API functions which are provided by Windows. KeyMacro can record mouse clicks, keystrokes and events. It records keyboard events and mouse clicks, keystrokes and mouse movements. The software can be used by anyone. It is designed to be easy to use and learn, yet powerful enough for the user who needs it most. The software also works on Windows 2000, XP, Vista, and 7. The KeyMacro allows you to type and click on a keyboard. In this way, you can have a record of all the keystrokes you type and click, as well as mouse clicks on any page you are on. The KeyMacro is an ideal way to document work or training. It is also an ideal way to make macros to act on files. Macros can also be used for keyboard shortcuts. A keyboard shortcut is a combination of a keystroke and a mouse click, or vice versa. For example, press Ctrl+Q to open the Quick Launch Bar, or press Ctrl+D to close a file window. KeyMacro can record keyboard shortcuts. KeyMacro also has a customizable keyboard shortcut list. This allows you to customize your personal short cut list. Once your personal list of macros is saved, you can create your own macros in other programs or on websites. This means that you can customize keystrokes in other programs, or anywhere on the internet. KeyMacro can be used on both Windows and Mac systems. It works on all versions of Windows and Mac OS X. KeyMacro is completely free, and is 100% safe. It has no nag screens or advertising. Features: * High quality audio, including extra high quality microphone recording * Run in desktop or
